THE MASTER OF ARTS IN FORENSIC PSYCHOLOGY PROGRAM AT ARGOSY UNIVERSITY, DALLAS

Forensic mental/behavioral health and forensic psychology are specialties reflected by services provided in a law enforcement, court or correctional setting, including police departments, jails/prisons or criminal and civil courts.

The Forensic Psychology Program at Argosy University, Dallas offers a 36 hour MA degree in Forensic Psychology. The degree is designed to educate and train students in fields that utilize the study and practice of forensic psychology. The program provides coursework in forensic psychology for application to law enforcement, legal and organizational consultation, and program analysis.

Topics being considered for future one to three day training events sponsored by the Forensic Psychology program:

- Adult Competency and Insanity Evaluations
- Juvenile Fitness to Proceed and State of Mind Evaluations
- Mitigation Evaluations
- Offender Risk and Needs Assessments
- Treatment Planning and Case Management
- Forensic Mental Health Assessment:
24 hours of specialized forensic training meeting the Texas statutory requirements to be qualified to conduct "incompetency or insanity evaluations"
